Treatment for head lice

Researchers at the University of Utah, with funding from the Utah Centers of Excellence Program, are seeking participants for a study investigating a non-chemical treatment for head lice. Any individual with head lice can participate in the study. Each participant will receive the treatment and also a modest compensation for their time (approximately 90 minutes). Your participation will contribute to the development of a safe and simple alternative for treating head lice. For more information, call 230-3170.

Same day treatment may be available.

Please call before conducting any other treatment

* Treatment is usually conducted in English. Spanish speaking individuals can be treated if they can provide a translator.